Sharing With Others

A Social Story About
Cooperating With Shared Materials

1

Some Things Are Shared

Classrooms, playrooms, and art tables often have materials for everyone.

Ask Together

How could this step help you?

I look around and notice when someone is waiting for a shared item.

Ask Together

How could this step help you?

I Think About My Choices

I can offer one item, use a timer, or finish a small part before passing it.

Ask Together

How could this step help you?

A Helper Can Model

A trusted person can show me how to offer or request an item kindly.

Ask Together

How could this step help you?

I Offer an Item

I choose an available item and hold it out safely.

Ask Together

How could this step help you?

My Friend Accepts

My friend may take it, choose something else, or say no thank you.

Ask Together

How could this step help you?

We Work Side by Side

We can use different materials while enjoying the same activity.

Ask Together

How could this step help you?

I Ask to Borrow

When I need something, I can ask, point, or use my communication device.

Ask Together

What words or pictures could you use?

We Share Back and Forth

We return items when finished so everyone has opportunities to participate.

Ask Together

How could this step help you?

Great Job - We Cooperated!

Cooperation does not mean giving away comfort items. We shared common materials fairly.
